

NATIONAL BOARD OF EXAMINATIONS
(NEET- SS 2018)

Dated: 29th June 2018

NOTICE

1. NEET-SS 2018 shall be conducted on 6th July 2018 at various test centres across the country.

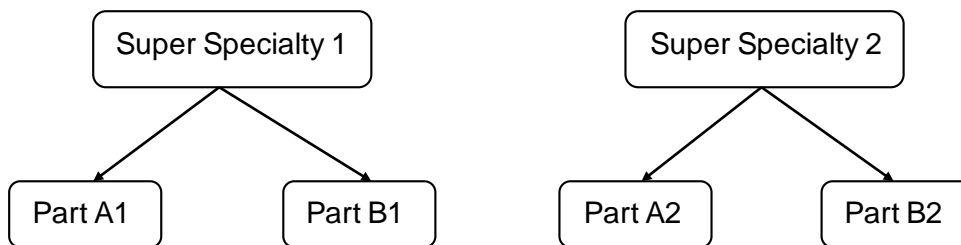

Exam timings : 02 PM to 5:30 PM

Reporting time : 12:00 PM

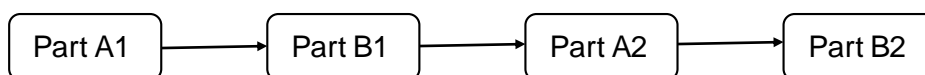

Reporting closes at : 01:30 PM

2. As per the Information Bulletin, a candidate had the option to choose a maximum of up to two super specialty courses / clubbed group.

3. The eligible prior entry broad qualification(s) for a particular super specialty course are indicated in annexure B of the Information Bulletin. In case a candidate has chosen two super specialty courses, the design of the question paper shall be as under:

4. The sequence of the question papers will be: Part A1 followed by part B1 followed by part A2 followed by part B2.

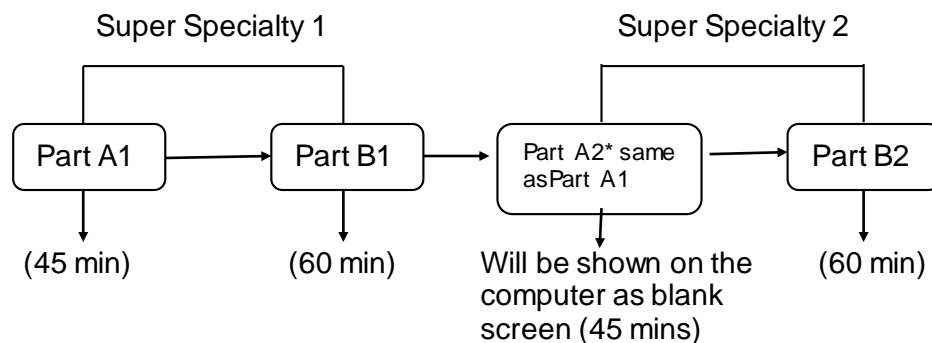

5. Time allocated for each part is tabulated below:

Part	Timings
A1	45 mins
B1	60 mins
A2	45 mins
B2	60 mins
Total	3 hrs 30 mins

Candidates may note that they cannot proceed from one part to another unless the stipulated time for that particular part is complete.

- The part B of each super specialty / clubbed group question paper will be separate. However, part A for certain super specialty courses, having same feeder broad specialty course(s), will be same. For eg: General surgery is the only & common feeder broad specialty qualification for Cardio Vascular and Thoracic Surgery, Endocrine Surgery, HepatoPancreato Biliary Surgery, Neuro Surgery, Paediatric Cardiothoracic Vascular Surgery, Paediatric Surgery, Plastic & Reconstructive Surgery, Surgical Gastroenterology/G.I.Surgery, Thoracic Surgery, Urology/Genito-Urinary Surgery & Vascular Surgery. Therefore, part A for the question paper for all these super specialty courses will be same.
- Suppose a candidate has chosen Surgical Gastroenterology and Urology during the online application form for NEET-SS 2018. Part A for both these papers will be same as these super specialties have the same feeder broad specialty qualification i.e. General Surgery. Such a candidate will be taking the exam in the following sequence:

However, as Part A2 being similar to Part A1, Part A2 of the second paper will not display any questions and the computer screen will remain blank for a period of 45 minutes which is the time allocated to Part A2. It is hereby clarified that the marks obtained by such a candidate in Part A1 will be utilized for generating the merit list for both the super specialty courses that the candidate has chosen.

8. Candidates opting for only one super specialty/eligible for only one superspecialty course cannot leave the examination premises till the completion of entire exam or 5:30PM whichever is later.
9. Click here to view the various combination of Super specialty courses chosen by the candidates in the online application form for NEET-SS 2018.
10. Based on the eligible feeder broad specialty qualification(s) for Super specialty courses, the following super specialty courses will have similar Part A of their question papers.
  - (a) Cardiology & Pulmonary Medicine
  - (b) Endocrinology, Hepatology, Nephrology, Neurology and Clinical Immunology & Rheumatology
  - (c) Endocrine Surgery, Urology, Neurosurgery, Paediatric Surgery, Plastic & Reconstructive Surgery, Cardio Vascular and Thoracic Surgery/Paediatric Cardiothoracic Vascular Surgery/Vascular Surgery/ Thoracic Surgery, HepatoPancreato Biliary Surgery/Surgical Gastroenterology(G.I. Surgery)

NBE

*****